

SOCIETY

Among the social affairs of the young people for the musicians who are visiting in Topeka, members of the Ohio University quartet, was a dinner party given by Mr. Paul Nowers and Miss Polly Nowers, at their home in Potwin Place. Covers were laid for: Mr. T. B. Hindman, Mr. H. M. Pickering, Mr. P. W. Austin, Mr. R. E. Monson, the guests of honor, Miss Mildred Fuller, Miss Lucille Fuller, Miss Alice Hughes, Miss Nowers, Mr. Philip Nowers, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nowers, and Mr. Paul Nowers.

Mrs. Allen Sells, of Topeka, who was a Columbus, Ohio, girl, was a schoolmate of Mr. Pickering, of the quartet, and at the time the men of the quartet stopped in Topeka on their way west, they met Mr. and Mrs. Sells, who introduced them to the young people of their set. A number of parties were given for them when they were in Topeka on their way to the coast, and they are being entertained at a good many affairs during their present stay in Topeka, on their return east.

The following Topeka people motored to Leavenworth in a party: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Quinton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Akers, Miss Kate Clough, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes, and their house guest, Mrs. Browne Loverin, of Chicago, and Mr. C. W. Merriam.

Miss Beita, of Leavenworth, has asked a few friends to play bridge Thursday at her home, with Mrs. Edwin Davis, of Leavenworth, who is the house guest of her, Mr. A. Campbell, of Leavenworth, and who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Sr.

The members of the Impromptu club and their families had their annual picnic party this afternoon in Central park.

Mrs. J. M. Connell and Mrs. Silas Porter were hostesses at a luncheon at the Country club today, complimentary to Mrs. Joseph White and Miss Grace White, of Boston, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White, Mr. and Mrs. White have rather recently come to Topeka to live, and are making their home at 1627 Clay street. Mr. White has the position left vacant by Mr. C. W. Hanchette, former manager of the Woolworth store.

Mrs. W. B. Flagler has returned from Ashland, Kan., where she visited Judge and Mrs. Francis C. Price. Judge Price is state senator, and has been coming to Topeka for many years to sit in the legislature. Mrs. Price accompanies him at each session, and she has made many friends in Topeka. She was a prominent figure in the social life of the town during the affairs of the session last winter.

Miss Frances Price, who is a student in the College of the Sisters of Bethany, expects to return to Topeka in the fall to continue her college course. Miss Carrie May Price, the other daughter of Judge and Mrs. Price, is a student in Oberlin, and will resume her work in that institution in the autumn.

Among the Topeka people who expect to go to Seattle in September to attend the convention of the American Bankers' association are: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs.

George A. Guild, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cobb, Mr. W. W. Miller, Mr. W. J. Miller, and Mr. P. E. Laughlin. Mr. Bowman is secretary of the state bankers' association, Judge C. E. Lobdell, of Great Bend, president of the state association, former Governor W. F. Bailey, of Atchison, and Mr. F. W. Goebel, of Kansas City, will also go from Kansas to attend the convention to be held from the 6th to the 10th of September.

When bright colored silk sweaters begin to pull, with the cooler days of autumn, the smart sport coat of dark material will come into its own. Here is a very good looking coat of greenish tan covert cloth in the ultra rippled effect, with exaggerated pockets and a collar that may be buttoned closely around the throat in the choker style so fashionable now.

Mrs. H. H. Hazlett will entertain her bridge club Thursday, with guest tables for Mrs. Browne Loverin, of Chicago, the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes.

A Topeka man returned from California brought back as his most vivid impression of the sights, the swarms of school teachers who are in San Francisco attending the fair. It is supposed that no occupation so proclaims itself as teaching school, and the man, having the reputation of being an accurate and observing judge of womanhood, was asked what he thought of them. He thought they were the best looking women he saw in San Francisco; that they were good clothes and powered their faces if they thought it improved them to do so. His opinion is in line with that of Helen Barr of the American school-children, who writes:

Perhaps it's only natural—with all this agitation in favor of the pretty school teacher as a sort of constitutional right of the American school-child—that the lay members of society should be acutely interested in the looks of the schoolmarm, now so numerously "in our midst."

Especially can they be so interested now without being accused of frivolity, in light of the fact that the teacher's looks have come up as a proper subject for discussion at the teachers' institutes, conventions and the like.

Therefore—Well, the honest-to-god truth is that everyone of us is as much interested in what the thousands attending the N. E. A. convention look like as in what they do and say.

Anyhow, whatever the cause, the women at the N. E. A. convention (yes; and the men, too) are better dressed and better groomed, are altogether smarter in appearance than it was considered moral for the school teacher to be in days gone by.

They present an agreeable, attractive, comfortably worldly appearance—are quite as good looking as the lucky irresponsible who do not have to set a good example to the community and impress the community with their propriety.

Yet, it's not impossible to spot the schoolmarm in a crowd. Should one composite photograph of the schoolmarm at this convention, it would give us a definite type, with a little firmer, mouth a little more set, eyes a little more searching—a slightly grimmer, more resolute, more capable, more care-burdened, and more conscientious type than flourishes frivolously outside the school; a type that you'd involuntarily address as "The Teacher" because of the mild managerial, gently disciplinary cast of countenance.

Mrs. J. W. F. Whitney entertained the following guests at luncheon Tuesday: Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Mrs. Edwin Davis, of Leavenworth, Mrs. Bayard Whitney, and Miss Elizabeth Smith.

The active chapter of the Beta sorority will meet Thursday afternoon with Miss Emilie Seery.

Miss Edith Ingham and Miss Helen Ingham will entertain at bridge Thursday for Miss Marguerite Lovewell, who will leave soon for New York. The guests will be a few of Miss Lovewell's close friends.

An effort is being made in the east to prove that it is not silly for a man to wear a wrist watch. The jewelers of the United States held a convention in New York, and they talked down the theory that it is girly to wear a small watch strapped onto the wrist. They showed pictures of Christy Mathewson pitching a game while wearing a wrist watch, and Richard Harding Davis, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and some other New York amateur soldiers now in camp were shown wrist-watches. The correctness of the style for men is now established, and the jewelers ought to be able to sell countless wrist watches, after their demonstration. Kay Laurell, of the Ziegfeld Follies, was at the show. It is not her purpose to let the men catch up with her and steal feminine prerogatives in the matter of carrying their jewelry; so she wore her watch strapped to her ankle.

A dispatch from New York says that about 2,000 persons on the East Side watched Miss Peggy O'Neill, the actress, repair her electric coupe with a hairpin after it had got out of right and refused to budge for more than an hour. Miss O'Neill got out and pulled all the knobs and finally tooted the horn. The automobile was obdurate. Finally she drew three hairpins from her hair and getting under the machine deposited them somewhere. There was a rumble and the motor began to hum. In a moment the car was on its way and it was not a Bosh!

Topeka women thought of that scheme a long while ago, and some of them carry an extra hairpin along with them for just that use. But no 2,000 of the sophisticated townpeople gather about to watch the operation. In one case, the electric carried the fair driver and one man. They both descended to make repairs in the machinery, and when the hairpin proved inadequate, the man produced a jack knife that got the results, and became the unpated improvement on the more primitive hairpin method.

Unless all signs fail, the Princess gown will return to favor this autumn. This should be good news for those of stout figure, for of all our varying styles there has been none which has quite equalled the Princess gown in its kindness to stout figures. In the drawing is shown one of the prettiest of these new models which is made of military blue taffeta and trimmed in embroidered bands in Persian colors. White organza is used for the collar and narrow vest which is closed with white buttons. The black satin vest in giraffe form, which is shirred at the center and draws across the front above the giraffe proper, is a distinct novelty. Little touches of hand embroidery appear on bodice and skirt.
